

Do you want to become a top consultant in aviation?

To70 delivers high-quality consulting and research services to the global aviation community. With our services, we help aviation and society cope with the current and future challenges in airport and airspace operations. Since our establishment more than 15 years ago, we have built a reputation on integrity, drive, knowledge and innovation.

To70's experts have extensive experience in the aviation sector. Our experts are renowned for their lateral thinking resulting in innovative and cost effective outcomes. Together with clients, To70 works to provide independent advice, helping them identify and analyse problems, recommending solutions and assisting with their subsequent implementation.

Our wide range of customers includes airports, airlines, government bodies, research institutions and air navigation service providers. These organisations all face the challenges associated with accommodating the growing demands of air traffic and integrating their operations with the environment. Our dedicated team of professionals display an unremitting drive to create practical solutions.

To grow our team in Australia, we're looking for an enthusiastic and motivated:

Junior Aviation Consultant

Your function

- You're working in project teams.
- You're working on the optimisation of airspace and airport operations.
- You're developing (fast-time simulation) models and running simulations.
- You're analysing and studying safety, capacity and the environment.
- You report and present your results.
- You formulate recommendations.
- You're in contact with our clients.
- You plan and organise your own tasks.

Your profile

- You bring analytical capabilities.
Computer scripting skills (e.g. JAVA, Python, R, MATLAB) would be highly regarded.
- You have a technical/engineering background and you've completed at least a Bachelor degree in a relevant field (e.g. aviation/aeronautics/aerospace, operations research, statistics, analytics, or mathematics).
- You're ambitious and desire to progress your career.
- You enjoy working with others and growing a professional network.
- You're able to communicate and express yourself clearly, in oral and written forms.
- You're curious, critical and innovative.
- You're an Australian Citizen, Permanent Resident of Australia or New Zealand citizen.

To70 Aviation (Australia) Pty Ltd ABN 30119069911 info@to70.com.au

Correspondence & Visitors Suite 19, 70 Racecourse Road North, Melbourne, VIC 3051, Australia

We offer

A salary and contract that match the function of your role and your experience. We will train you and develop you personally and technically to meet the challenges of your future career. Commensurate with your development we will offer you opportunities to become more involved in the project management and business development areas of our business.

More information

Eleonora Gatto

Human Resources

+61 3 9021 6096

Eleonora.Gatto@to70.com.au

Interested?

Send your cover letter and resume to: eleonora.gatto@to70.com.au.

Submissions close 8th July 2018.